Principal's Message

Once again the school year has drawn to a close. The memories of exciting moments will remain with us. Students will remember the dances, the coffee houses, the exciting volleyball, basketball and football games. The track team had an outstanding year winning numerous medals at track meets in Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Fargo. The drama production "Redwood and Main" brought a unique North End setting and dialogue to West Side Story. Spirit Week was highly successful.

Congratulations graduates! Your hard work has resulted in academic success. I hope that your years at St. John's have been memorable. I would like to acknowledge the work of Student Council. You accomplished some amazing things, organizing and running events with creativity.

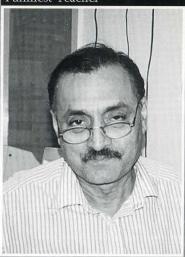

A special thank you to Ms. Hall and Mr. Sheppard for your guidance and the many hours put into the publication of this, our Millennium Yearbook.

"I Want to Be Bad"

Two competing brotherhoods, both vying for territory in an area of the city where the comfortable and affluent rarely tread, this is the story of the Guardians and the Challengers...

The Guardians were there first. Wary...vigilant...watchful...the third generation descendants of immigrant parents who came to blame their own anxieties and thwarted ambitions on the latest wave of newcomers...

Following in the same troubled footsteps of their parents, the Guardians acquire their misdirected anger and at a very young age, learn how to direct it at those they perceive as threats to their tenuous domain. And the most recent threat are the Challengers...

Valedictory Address

SJHS Grad Calvary Temple June 28, 2000

Faculty members, special guests, family, friends, and fellow graduates: good morning. I am delighted to finally be here, celebrating a memorable chapter in our lives.

Class of two thousand; there is a nice ring to it. We are fortunate to have such a round number; and we're especially lucky that out hats bear four digits instead of the boring two. We all owe ourselves a comforting pat on the back, we've made it, we're finally here, graduation day.

Since it is time for moving on, Robert Frost's poem, titled "Nothing Gold Can Stay" instantly came to mind.

Nature's first green is gold,
Her hardest hue to hold.
Her early leaf's a flower;
But only so an hour.
Then leaf subsides to leaf.
So Eden sank to grief,
So dawn goes down to day.
Nothing gold can stay.

I would be lying if I said that our graduation is exactly as I expected it would be a few years ago. My friends and I had it all planned; who our grad dates were going to be; who was going to win which award; who was supposed to deliver this speech. We pretended that almost nothing was going to change. But everyone soon found that every school year, the lockers looked a little smaller, the floors seem more filled with younger people, and classmates who we've known for so long began to change; you know, shave. Speaking to teachers suddenly became more and more comfortable. The cafeteria fries tasted better, or worse, than the year before. And, of course, the hallways became all too familiar - a completely different impression than in grade seven, when St. John's High was more like a labyrinth.

Everyone could agree that we've become wiser throughout those years. We've prepared and conditioned ourselves for a world full of opportunities and discovery. We are now St. John's High School learned, ready for the adult experience and responsibility. Many of us have plans, many of us don't; regardless of what happens, let us give it our best to achieve whatever it is we truly want in life.

Now I'd like to take a little time to thank all the people who have made all the difference in our upbringing. Let's thank the wonderful teachers, who have not only helped generate the mathematical and language skill we will need to succeed; they have also given confidence, inspiration, and guidance. Plus, don't forget; when we started reading Shakespeare, teachers taught us the most sophisticated way of insulting people by biting one's thumb.

Our parents; where would we be without their constant attention to our studies? They have blessed us with love, life, and a part of their paycheck in order for us to attend school. They have stood by us when we needed them.

Students, we all want to avoid a tearful thank-you to our parents, so I will make it a little easier. Parents; on behalf of everyone here today, you are appreciated for everything you've sacrificed. Thank you.

To all the friends we've made in St. John's through the years. You've been so nice – you've given such beautiful memories. And in those friendships; I can include all the people we've borrowed change from, for a telephone call, for cafeteria food, and for bus fare on the Salter 38. All of you deserve the sweetest of thanks.

Fellow graduates, today marks the end of our High School years. As I've said before, we went through many changes while attending St. John's. Since we are graduating, I'm confident they were changes for the better. I wish you all success and happiness. We have helped one another, I'm sure we'll help each other again in the years to come. Our years in St. John's have been gold and there is no advice I can give that the people here haven't already taught us, be it about life or some other issue to contemplate. All anyone can do right now is say a thank you, give a congratulation, or wish someone all the luck in the world...

Graduates of 2000, it's been beautiful to have had the pleasure of sharing a classroom with you. You all deserve to fulfill every goal you've worked for. I hope your dreams do come true, and let's make the future count...goodbye is too sad a word; so let's just say farewell and stay gold. Thank you.

Graduation Ceremony

Passing of the Torch

This year as the prez and vice we took this torch in our hands and promised to uphold the things for which its bright flame stands To honour and to represent to find and then bring out the Tiger Spirit that St. John's High is really all about To work real hard and to plan as well as get things done For dances, sochops and spirit drives to be enjoyed by everyone To take this torch you hereby swear to keep the Tiger Spirit true So by all means we hand over this responsibility to you!

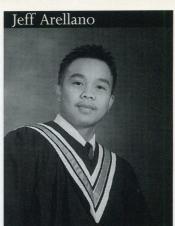

Jennilee Gavina and Melanie Ayson
